

Phase 8 Post-Polish Screen Bible

Darts & Pats exhibit visual QA after Phase 7 touch-friction polish.

Branch: phase-8-post-polish-screen-bible · Source commit at capture time: 50f28b1 · Build status: npm run build passed.

This report is a documentation, screenshot, visual consistency, and kiosk-readiness pass. It does not add new exhibit features and does not introduce final Image 2 art.

What Phase 8 Checked

- Fresh landscape, portrait, 4K landscape, and 4K portrait screenshots after the Phase 7 friction pass.
- Phase 6 portrait composition remained intact: poster-like Parade, vertical Memory Corridor, bottom rail tray, larger portrait reading surfaces, and simplified portrait Follow the Strings board.
- Phase 7 visible fixes remained intact: no Editor topic chooser, compact drawer metadata, simplified public source line, clearer Class-of tray, and no public keyboard-summoning controls.
- Touch/media captures used coarse pointer and hover:none emulation for kiosk-like review.

Phase 7 Friction Findings

Check	Result
Editor topic chooser	Gone. The Editor Table now asks only Dart or Pat before reveal.
Editor playable pool	616 of 616 records playable. 595 records have form words masked before reveal. 0 records withheld.
Editor reveal	Original unmasked text appears after reveal with original classification/date and interpretive copy, not score language.
Reading drawer source	Public source is shown as "The Breeze · Record #[id]". PDF filename/page clutter and "Not parsed" fields are not shown publicly.
Related by Topic	Visible much sooner after metadata compression, especially in landscape. Portrait still needs physical-screen readability review for long records.
Class-of tray	Uses "Pick your graduation year," dynamic "Show your years (2001–2004)," and active chip "Class of 2004: 2001–2004."
Public form controls	No public text/search/select/textarea/contenteditable/prompt controls remain. The Class-of range slider is non-keyboard and touch-friendly.

Visual Consistency Audit

- The exhibit still reads as a tactile archival corridor rather than a StoryMap: persistent rail, physical cards, drawers, corkboard strings, and floor/timeline metaphors remain dominant.
- Follow the Strings remains the densest screen. It is self-contained and tactile, but portrait and 4K reviews should keep watching node/card density.
- Word Breeze remains compact and atmospheric. It should not gain more terms or filtering language without a new review.
- Portrait mode still feels intentionally museum-grade in the captured states, especially the Parade, corridor, drawer, and string-board views.
- Remaining kiosk risk: long records can still require drawer scrolling, and future generated art must not reduce contrast or make controls compete with scenery.

REFLECTION WALL

What the wall remembers

All entries are drawn from Darts & Pats published in The Breeze, James Madison University's student newspaper. They are presented as historical evidence of perception, humor, grievance, gratitude, and civic memory—not as neutral measurements of the town-gown relationship.

Primary action: Read the source note and decide whether to restart or keep exploring.

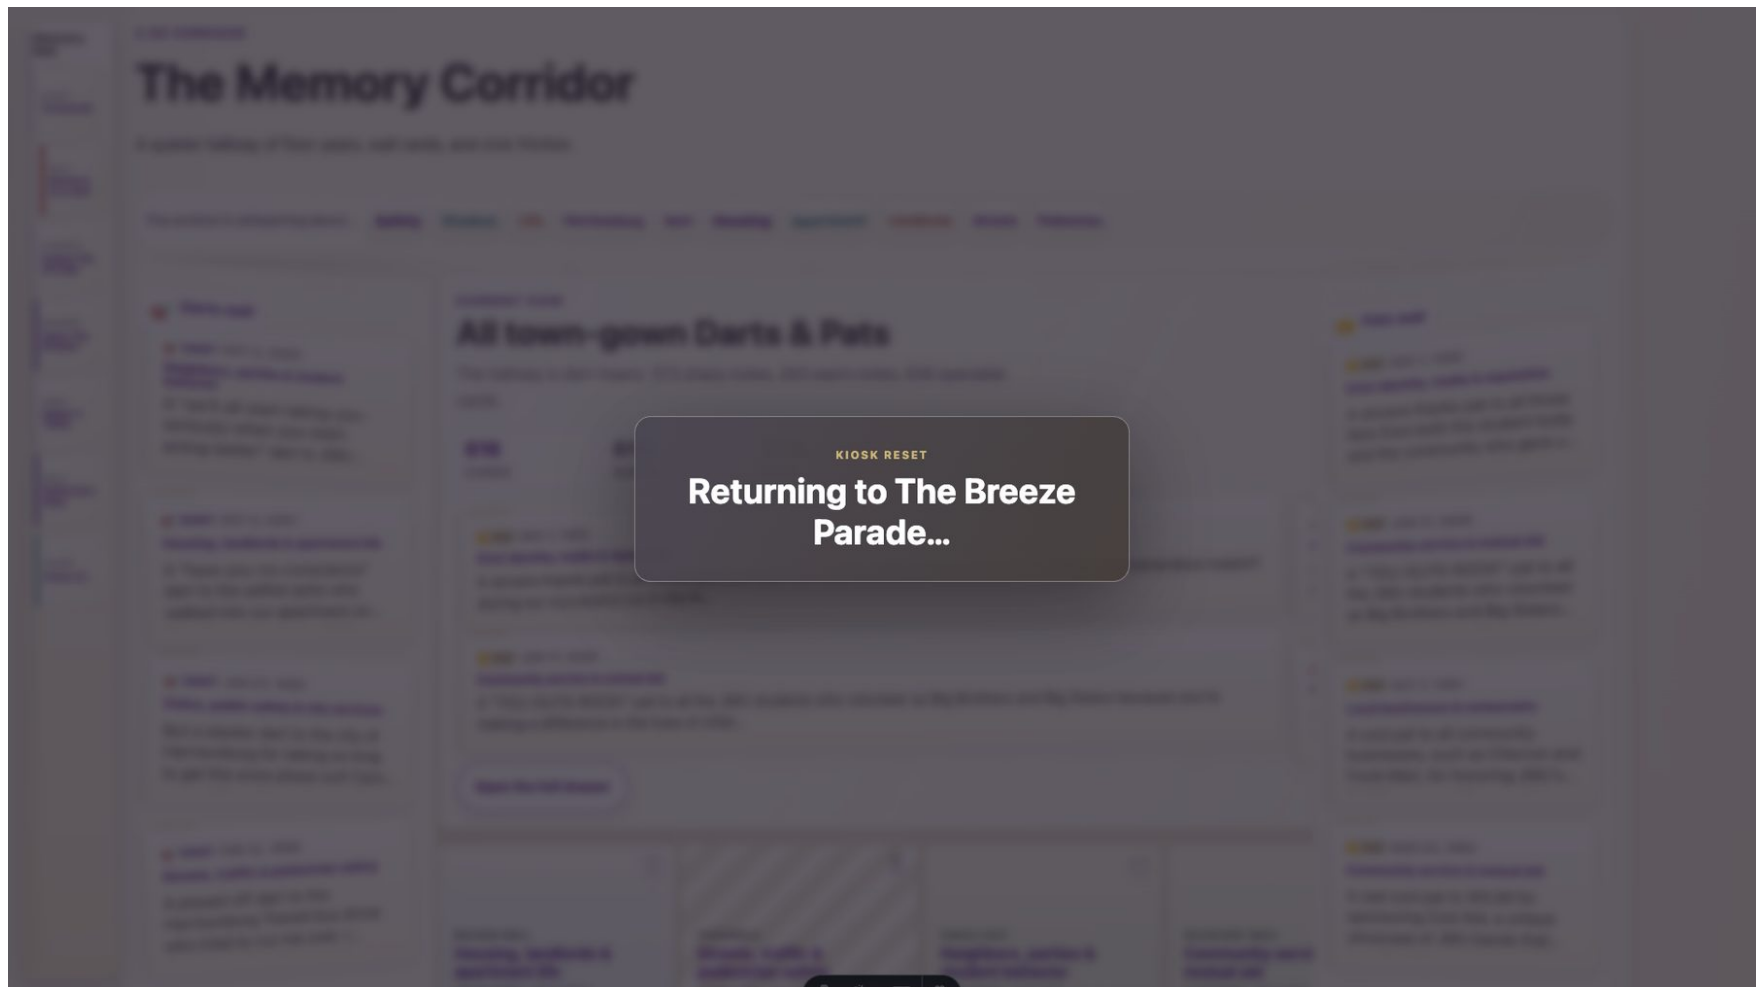

Review note: Confirm the source note is clear without feeling like a dense footer.

NO-SCORE INTERPRETIVE GAME

You be the Breeze editor

Read the card cold. Was it printed as a Dart or a Pat?

Some cards are masked because they name their own form.

A mean ol' [form hidden] to the Duke Dog for only sporadically appearing at the women's basketball games. Some community children come to games just to see the big furry guy. Sent in by someone who has seen sad eyes.
